

a sunny day in boulogne sur mer it started with the moving visit of the "Calvary of the sailors", building in the shape of a boat which is found on a cliff and which reminds us of the sailors who disappeared at sea we continued with the visit of the "beuriere house" which is in a staircase, it is an old fisherman's house, we find there costume, photos, objects which reminds us of the screw of the sinner in another time we ended the day by visiting the museum which is in an old fortified castle where we find masks of different religion and different eras
